

CAPT COREY A. BRADDOCK

COMMANDING OFFICER

Captain Corey Braddock, Commanding Officer of US Coast Guard (CG) Base Alameda, is a 29-year veteran of the US military—21 years with the CG and eight with the Army.

Prior to his assignment to Base Alameda, Corey stood up the Operational Logistics Command's (LOGCOM) Expeditionary Logistics Division (LOG-X) delivering "last mile" mission support services that facilitated global military operations. Operationally, Corey served as the Executive Officer of CG Air Station San Francisco, overseeing search and rescue, law enforcement, and emergency response for 80% of California's coastline and three of the nation's busiest maritime ports. He also served as an Aeronautical Engineering Officer for both Air Station Detroit, MI and the Helicopter Interdiction Tactical Squadron (HITRON) in Jacksonville, FL. In both assignments he served as a helicopter instructor pilot, flight examiner, and lead maintenance test pilot. Before HITRON, Corey served as a search & rescue pilot and collateral duty officer at Air Station Savannah, GA. As a staff officer, Corey served at CG Headquarters in the Office of Budget and Programs (CG-821) where he oversaw the CG's personnel & human resources portfolio; an account that made up 60% of the Service's $12 billion budget. Preceding his Coast Guard service, Corey served in the United States Army. In the Republic of Korea, he was a lead operational planner for a 2,500-soldier aviation brigade and the Commanding Officer for a UH-60 Blackhawk helicopter company. Stateside, he trained National Guard and Reserve units for combat operations, led an aviation platoon, and acted as the Executive Officer for a headquarters company.

Corey earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Economics from the United States Military Academy at West Point, NY; a Master of Business Administration degree from American Public University; and a Master of Public Administration degree from Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government. He also served as a National Security Affairs Fellow at the Hoover Institution, Stanford University and as a Fellow at the Center for Homeland Defense and Security's Executive Leadership Program. Corey is a Department of Homeland Security Certified Acquisition Professional and holds a rating as a Federal Aviation Administration Rotorcraft Commercial & Airline Transport Pilot.

Corey is married and has four children. His wife, Dr. Jennifer Braddock holds a Doctor of Philosophy degree in Mass Communication and is a lecturer at Santa Clara University and the Director of Product Delivery at the National Society of Leadership and Success.